

Abortion Opposition Mapping Workshop in Southern region, 27-29th February 2024

As part of the Feminist Narrative project, CommonHealth held a capacity building workshop of its members in the southern region in Trivandrum. The workshop aimed to enhance participants' technical understanding of safe abortion by covering legal frameworks, medical procedures, and reproductive health policies. It fostered perspective building through encouraging thoughtful reflection on the ethical, cultural, and societal dimensions surrounding abortion, including consideration of counter-narratives.

In addition, participants were equipped with tools to analyze and map current trends of opposition groups within their sphere of influence, specifically in media and community spaces. The workshop focused on developing strategies to counter opposition narratives within various domains, including community, college, government institutions, and media spaces. Overall, the program sought to empower participants with comprehensive knowledge and skills to navigate the complexities of safe abortion, engage in ethical discussions, and strategically counter opposition narratives in their region.
